

Seize the divine moment... make history!

Whenever we choose to engage a divine opportunity, there is the real potential of bringing others into the realm of Divine order and God's purpose. One critical reason to seize every divine moment: You can never know at the onset entirely what God intends to do through your simple act of obedience: Change a life, influence the world.

You've come through many whirlwinds...Defy the present odds stacked against your dreams, and position yourself for total victory; trust your instinct! Pick up the baton and run in the race set before you without wavering, you deserve life's best.

Being afraid to take a chance has never solved a problem. Many bright individuals are stopped cold for fear of failing, without considering logically, that everybody will fail at some point and time at something on the way to the top.

I know many prayers have been prayed and perhaps the outcome hasn't changed; or you may have taken the position to simply wait on God. However, the latter will certainly bring a disadvantage if one doesn't understand that God is waiting on us to pick up the Authority of his word, move forward and triumph.

Purpose not to settle for dead-end situations... DREAM BIG, and on purpose. You're chasing the light of day which encompasses your provision, fulfillment and endowment to influence life on a broader scale.

Rise up and take possession!
